DETAILED ACTION

1. This action is in response to papers filed on January 6, 200.
2. Claim 77 has been amended.
3. Claims 77 and 79-80 are pending.
4. Claims 77 and 79-80 are rejected.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claim 77 recites the limitation "the package" There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. The limitation is found in line 14 of claim 77 in the section for "printing means....for placement on 'the package'." Claim also recites "the cost" in line 5 of claim 77, where a cost was not identified prior to this limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3629

8. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

9. Claim 77 and 80 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent 4,923,022; Hsieh; Automatic mailing apparatus and further in view of US Patent 5,065,000 Pusic Automated Electronic Postage Meter Having a Direct Access Bar Code Printer.

10. As to claim 77 teaches a machine for mailing envelopes

- a. Receiving payment(C. 4 I. 14-17)
- b. Scale for weighing envelope and identifying weight(C. 3 I. 35)
- c. Type of mail service available displayed(C. 4 I. 1-3).
 - i. displays postage of the delivery option selected by the user(C. 4 I. 9-12)
- d. User selects delivery option and enters delivery information(C. 4 I. 4-5).
- e. Computes a cost for delivery(C. 4 I. 9-11).

Hsieh teaches stamping the envelope with postage but fails to teach printing a bar code label and receipt of purchase. Pusic teaches an automated electronic postage meter with a printer that prints both bar codes and receipts. (C. 3 I. 67-68; C. 4 I. 1-4). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of invention to combine the teachings of Pusic with Hsieh so as to allow for quicker delivery with the use of reading a bar code and allowing the user proof of mailing the envelop.

11. As to claim 80 Hsieh teaches the payment means as a magnetic strip credit card reader(C. 4 I. 14-17).

12. Claims 79 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US Patent 4,923,022; Hsieh; Automatic mailing apparatus and further in view of US Patent 5,065,000 Pusic Automated Electronic Postage Meter Having a Direct Access Bar Code Printer.as applied to claims 78 and 80 above, and further in view of US Patent 4,836,352 Tateno; Express Package Collection Locker

13. As to claim 79 Hsieh and Pusic teach an automated postage machine, however they fail to teach the input means as a touch screen. Tateno teaches a touch screen in order enter destination information(C. 5 I. 15-20). It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of invention to combine the teachings of Tateno with Hsieh and Pusic so as to have an alternative means of inputting information that can withstand the element of the environment in which the kiosk is located.

Response to Arguments

14. Applicant's arguments filed January 6, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

15. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, applicant argues that there is not suggestion either in the references or the knowledge available to "modify" the references with a printer for printing of bar codes. The examiner first addresses the argument of "knowledge available. The examiner draws applicants attention to the filing dates of the two references combined for these limitations were both filed at least two years prior to applicants "invention being made". ; thus establishing knowledge at applicants time of invention.

16. As to applicants arguments that combining the references would require modification of Hsieh by "removing" the stamping means. The examiner notes the rejection is a "combination" in which the limitation of a printing means is in addition to, not instead of, what Hsieh has already established. The examiner notes that Pusic discusses two methods of applying the bar code to the item, either by being moved along a conveyor for items less than one inch which would be the equivalent to Hsieh's stamping means inside the apparatus or the label could also be printed on a self-adhesive label to be put on outside the apparatus. (C.4 l. 43-46 and C. 6 l. 8-16). Therefore, this demonstrates that Hsieh's stamping means would not have to be eliminated for the addition of a printer to print a bar code label or a customer receipt.

Art Unit: 3629

17. The test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference.... Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of those references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art." In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 425, 208 USPQ 871, 881 (CCPA 1981). See also In re Sneed, 710 F.2d 1544, 1550, 218 USPQ 385, 389 (Fed. Cir. 1983) ("[I]t is not necessary that the inventions of the references be physically combinable to render obvious the invention under review."); and In re Nievelt, 482 F.2d 965, 179 USPQ 224, 226 (CCPA 1973) ("Combining the teachings of references does not involve an ability to combine their specific structures.").

18. As to applicants arguments regarding providing "reasonable expectation of success of the combination" the examiner notes first that applicant fails to provide evidence as to why there would not be an expectation of success for the combinations. The examiner further notes that given the motivation provided above; if one of ordinary skill would have been motivated to combine a printing means with the Hsieh mailing apparatus it is with the expectation that the combination will be successful.

19. As to applicant arguments regarding the combination of Tateno the examiner draws the applicants attention to C. 5 l. 15-20 where Tateno states that the touch screen can be used in place of input buttons rendering it an equivalent input means. The examiner notes any recognizable equivalence could be used to replace an input means with any common interface means such as a joystick, mouse, keyboard, voice recognition based on the location and intended use of the kiosk.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).
